

16-18 October | International Convention Centre Newport

What is Wales Tech Week?

This hybrid, international Tech Summit will give you valuable insights and opportunities by:

- showcasing Welsh technologies on a global stage
- helping all organisations, whatever size or sector, keep pace with technology and prepare for the future.

The Welsh Governments' International Strategy sets out our approach to forging international relationships, based on common cultural and linguistic heritage, shared values, and common social and economic interests.

Wales Tech Week offers the ideal platform for our international partners to learn how Wales is punching well above its weight within the UK Tech Sector and is enjoying a growing reputation as one of the UK's leading tech hubs.

Our growing sector spans Cyber, FinTech, Data Analytics, Blockchain, Compound Semiconductors to name a few with a healthy mix of large multinationals and home-grown businesses, many of whom will be represented at Wales Tech Week.

Welsh Government is committed to creating a dynamic and innovative tech sector through developing indigenous business, supporting academia, creating world class facilities, attracting top companies and like the focus of Wales Tech Week - we're encouraging international engagement and collaboration.

Save the date

Working with Technology Connected, International Relations & Trade are creating a parallel visit programme and will shortly be inviting our international partners to join us in Newport. In the meantime, if you can start to promote the event / dates amongst your regional contacts in post that would be much appreciated.
